South:
"This is a remarkable year. In 1878 we have had winter and spring and now have summer. The earth is warm, the ground in good condition, crops of the industrious advancing, the gardens beautiful and maturing their edibles, the flowers are blooming, the birds are singing, the lambs are skipping on the hills, and the girls and boys exuberant with joy. While the war cloud hangs so with joy. minously over Europe our own great country is in the enjoyment of peace, with a pros-pect of abundant harvests, and a prosperity which nothing but had legislation can mar.

other garment to settle it as best he may. -A rich and novel incident happened, a lay or two ago, at the courthouse. It was pending the trial in an action at law, before a well-known attorney sitting as special judge, wherein was involved the identity and ownership of a cow, and which, during its progress, was involved in as much mystery as "Solon Shingle's" barrel of "apple sass." The argument had closed, the jury awoke from their slumbers, and the colonel (we beg pardon, the judge) proceeded to de-liver his charge, madvertently instructing as to "if a reasonable doubt exists," etc., forgetting, for the moment, the character of the forum, and that it was a civil and not a criminal action, when up jumped a well-known pleader from the Adams street district, with 'Hold on, the court has shot off its mouth before it thought.' The court accepted the interruption as made in good faith, and
